Portfolio Overview

This portfolio presents the scope of my Virtual Assistant contract with Oakhaven Partners from January through December 2025. Oakhaven Partners is a business and management consulting firm. My work combined administrative coordination, digital organisation, brand support, content planning, social media management, and short-form video editing. The engagement required reliable follow-through, clear communication, independent task management, and careful attention to brand consistency.

The examples in this portfolio explain the systems and workflows I used to support day-to-day delivery. Company-sensitive information, client records, internal communications, and proprietary assets are excluded or described at a high level.

Case Study 1 Virtual Operations and Administrative Coordination

Objective

Maintain dependable day-to-day organisation so meetings, priorities, files, reminders, and follow-ups remained visible and manageable.

My contribution

I supported administrative routines across schedules, meetings, email, documentation, research, and task coordination. I organised information in a consistent structure and helped keep work moving by tracking responsibilities and deadlines.

Working approach

- Reviewed upcoming commitments and prioritised time-sensitive actions.
- Prepared schedules, reminders, meeting information, and follow-up items.
- Organised files and records using clear naming and folder conventions.
- Converted research and incoming information into concise, usable notes.
- Maintained task visibility and followed up on outstanding actions.

Representative deliverables

Deliverable	Purpose
Weekly schedule	Creates one view of meetings, deadlines, reminders, and preparation time.
Meeting follow-up log	Records decisions, owners, due dates, and completion status.
Task tracker	Organises priorities and provides visibility across multiple workstreams.
Digital filing structure	Makes working documents and reference materials easier to retrieve.

Value delivered

The operating structure supported clearer priorities, more consistent follow-up, and dependable access to information. It also reduced the risk of tasks becoming disconnected across email, meetings, and separate documents.

Case Study 2 Brand Research and Consistency Support

Objective

Support stronger brand decisions by organising information about competitors, positioning, messaging, content activity, and visible market opportunities.

My contribution

I conducted in-depth research on competing brands and organised the findings into practical planning inputs. I compared positioning, service presentation, content themes, formats, and audience-engagement approaches relevant to a business and management consulting firm.

Working approach

- Defined research questions around competing messages, service presentation, and content opportunities.
- Collected and organised publicly available market and competitor information.
- Compared themes, formats, messages, and engagement approaches.
- Summarised findings into positioning and audience-engagement ideas.
- Connected research observations to practical brand and content recommendations.

Representative deliverables

Deliverable	Purpose
Competitor review	Compares positioning, messaging, content themes, formats, and visible strengths or gaps.
Research notes	Organises observations by positioning, audience, services, content, proof, and engagement.
Market pattern summary	Identifies recurring strengths, gaps, and communication approaches.
Brand recommendations	Connects competitor findings to clearer positioning and content decisions.

Value delivered

The research process created a clearer basis for content and campaign planning. Consistency checks helped keep individual pieces of content connected to the brand's broader positioning rather than treating publishing as a collection of isolated posts.

Case Study 3 Content Planning and Social Media Support

Objective

Maintain an organised content pipeline that connects ideas, formats, publishing dates, objectives, and performance observations.

My contribution

I managed the company's social media accounts across Instagram, TikTok, and YouTube. I created requested content ideas, captions, and graphics, maintained publishing plans, published approved content, and analysed available performance information for useful patterns.

Working approach

- Researched relevant topics, audience questions, platform formats, and emerging opportunities.
- Mapped ideas to content objectives and suitable channels.
- Maintained a calendar containing themes, formats, dates, status, and required assets.
- Repurposed source material into platform-appropriate posts, captions, carousels, or short clips.
- Reviewed content performance and documented practical recommendations for future planning.

Representative deliverables

Deliverable	Purpose
Monthly content calendar	Coordinates themes, formats, channels, owners, status, and publishing dates.
Content idea bank	Keeps researched topics and audience questions available for future use.
Repurposing map	Shows how one source asset can become several platform-specific pieces.
Performance review	Captures observations and next-step recommendations from available analytics.

Value delivered

A structured content workflow improved planning visibility and made it easier to reuse strong source material across formats. Performance observations could then inform the next planning cycle rather than remaining separate from content decisions.

Case Study 4 Short Form Video Editing and Asset Management

Objective

Turn source footage or longer content into concise, brand-aligned videos for digital channels while maintaining organised production files.

My contribution

I edited short-form company videos in CapCut for platforms such as Instagram, TikTok, and YouTube Shorts. My work included selecting usable sections, tightening edits, adding captions and supporting elements, checking brand alignment, and organising source and final assets.

Working approach

- Reviewed source material and identified sections with a clear hook or standalone message.
- Edited clips for pace, clarity, platform format, and intended duration.
- Added captions, transitions, music, graphics, and other relevant elements where appropriate.
- Checked visual and message consistency against the brand direction.
- Organised source files, working versions, approved exports, and reusable assets.

Representative deliverables

Deliverable	Purpose
Video editing brief	Defines purpose, audience, hook, source footage, format, style, and call to action.
Short-form edit	Presents one clear message in a concise, platform-appropriate format.
Review checklist	Checks captions, pacing, audio, graphics, branding, spelling, and export settings.
Asset library	Separates raw footage, work-in-progress files, approved exports, and reusable elements.

Value delivered

The workflow connected editing decisions to content strategy and brand standards. Organised assets also supported easier revision, reuse, and hand-off without losing track of source material or approved versions.
